FOUR PLAYERS LEFT IN SINGLES PLAY

RICHARDS-NOWELL AND CASTLE-COOKE REMAIN
Star Games Expected When Champions Meet This Afternoon—Finals on Monday Next.

Four men are now left in the championship singles of the Territory, and they are Nowell, Richards, Castle and Cooke. This afternoon Nowell and Richards play on the Beretania courts, and Castle and Cooke fight it out on the Pacific courts.

Yesterday afternoon on the Beretania courts Nowell defeated Low 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, and the winner showed real good form. Cooke also beat Deerr 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, and every point was well fought for. Many of the games went to deuce before they ended, and the struggle was a hard one.

The Nowell-Low match on the Beretania courts was a beauty, and at first looked as if it would go to five sets. In the opening set Nowell won four games straight before Low got going. The latter did not appear able to get his serve in, and altogether, played away off his proper game. Low took the fifth game, but Nowell took the next, and the score stood at 5-1. Then Low got one more game, but that was his last effort, as Nowell took the next and with it the set, 6-2.

In the second set Low once more proved that he never knows when he is beaten, and, playing in brilliant fashion, he quickly ran to three-love. Then Nowell got two games in succession, and a close set was thought probably. Low, however, put on more steam, and won three games in easy fashion. That ended the set, and honors were easy, both as regards sets and games.

The third set was a snorter from the first ball served till Nowell won out 10-8. Nowell won the first two games and lost the third. Then he took three more, and the score stood 5-1. It was then that Low gave the best exhibition of pluck and skill that has ever been seen on the Beretania courts. Undaunted by the fact that Nowell was within a few points of winning the set, Low set out on his seemingly hopeless task, and by exercising the utmost knowledge he possessed of the game, he took four games running, and made the score five-all. He was warmly applauded for the feat, and everybody could not but hope that he would win out after such a gallant exhibition.

Nowell won the eleventh game to thirty, but Low came at him again and brought the score to six-all. Seven-all and eight-all were called before Nowell managed to take two games in succession and win the set 10-8. It was a fine struggle and the spectators were worked up to a state of excitement over the match.

Nowell now had two sets to Low's one, and the fourth set was looked forward to with great interest. The first game went to Nowell, but Low took the second. Then Nowell captured two in succession, and the score was three to one. The fifth game, however, went to Low, and 3-2 was called. Nowell won the next two games and the set looked over. Low, however, grit his teeth and won the next three games, and once more five-all was announced. That was Low's last chance, as Nowell won the next two games and the set ended 7-5.

It was a beautiful match, and if Low had not taken a twenty-five miles walk with his company during the day he might have been in better form for the first set of the match, and the result might have been different.
